Rose Care and Culture

Planting Roses: Roses prefer full sun (6 hours or more) and well-drained soil. To plant, dig a planting hole that is 1B' deep and 24' in diameter. Mix 50% of your native soil (or soil from your garden) with composted organic matter such as composted manure or yard waste. Add bone meal to encourage root growth. Most of our roses are growing in large 5-gallon plastic containers. Water container well before planting, then tip on its side and gently slide the plant out. Set plant into the hole so the soil level around the plant is the same as the surrounding soil (do not plant deeper than the graft joint). Back fill the prepared soil around the plant and tamp down. Water in well, soaking the entire planting hole. Water new plants deeply once a week during the active growing season.

Feeding: We recommend fertilizing in April, June, and August with a granular fertilizer (rose food). You may use a liquid food 'Sea Grow' more frequently. For a slow-release use "Osmocote," or an organic food 'E. B. Stone' less often.

Watering: Regular watering throughout the summer months increases plant vigor and reduces disease problems.

Disease Control: Rose diseases may be controlled by close monitoring and good sanitation. Pick off sick leaves and rake fallen leaves when they occur. Hard prune severely diseased plants and spray with a fungicide (systemic) or an organic copper fungicide, baking soda, or neem oil to prevent reinfection. A plant that is intolerably diseased may be sprayed on a 14-21-day cycle from May through September with a fungicide. Insect pests that appear, most then aphids, may often be controlled organically with predators such as ladybugs or praying mantis, an insecticidal soapy solution "Safer" brand, a solution of water and neem oil spray, or a strong blast from your hose.

Pruning: lightly prune tall roses in November to prevent snow or wind breakage, with the primary pruning done in March. Most modern roses may be severely pruned to a height of 6 to 8-inches. This encourages new growth and more flowers. Old roses, English roses, and climbing roses prefer a more minimalist pruning, by removing the least productive old wood and damaged or diseased wood.

Mulch: In late October or early November, apply an organic mulch (manure or bark) 8" to 12' up the cones. This protects against winter injury. Spread the mulch out away from the rose cones in March when you prune.
